Knutson/Barkfeld 3,000

Hakuba, Japan. Japan is famous for its powder snow, and despite last winter being one of the worst around the small town of Tsugahara Kogen it still delivered the famous 'Jo-Ten' powder skiing experience to Tom Hume. I would enjoy skiing the run first and then pitch up around halfway down behind a good tree and get Tom and his father and brother to take their own lines. This photograph just captured the sort of moment we were all enjoying.

Nitida montana, Wils. Moneta. We had planned for a long time to tackle this mountain-like challenge on Nitida in the Kawasawa mountains (close to the Rwenzori Axis). After a brief rest on the summit, we started a steep, technical and very exposed descent. The timing was perfect, just before sunrise when the light was warmer and softer. We fantasize to experience the sunset as high in the mountains, but the sun here we had to make for due to the lack of daylight on the bottom part of the trail, where we had to ride with helmet lights on.
